Property Description

Set high in the pristine mountains of southern Costa Rica, at approximately 1,000 meters above sea level, Finca Hamacas represents a rare opportunity to acquire a fully operational regenerative agricultural estate with an established premium coffee brand, certified organic production, and significant international growth potential. Surrounded by lush cloud forest landscapes and nourished by one of the most fertile climates in Central America, this extraordinary 10-hectare estate combines sustainability, biodiversity, and sophisticated agricultural infrastructure in a way few properties can offer. Founded in 2014 with the vision of restoring heavily overgrazed land into a thriving ecosystem, the project has evolved into an exemplary model of regenerative farming and conscious luxury agriculture. Today, more than 90% of the finca's cultivable land has been successfully regenerated through organic management and biodiverse cultivation systems.
