Property Description

Located in the beautiful hills of Santa Elena in Pérez Zeledón, this exceptional property offers 11,259 m² of land with approximately 95% usable terrain, making it ideal for building, gardening, or developing a sustainable lifestyle project. The property combines stunning natural surroundings with excellent accessibility and infrastructure, creating a rare opportunity for those looking to start a new life in Costa Rica. Electricity, water, and fiber-optic internet are available, allowing comfortable modern living while being immersed in nature. One of the highlights of the property is its breathtaking view of the majestic Chirripó mountain range, the highest mountain in Costa Rica. Along the edge of the land runs a beautiful creek that carries fresh water year-round, adding to the natural charm of the property and providing an additional water source for gardening or permaculture projects.
