Property Description

A spacious and airy 2-bedroom home set on a generous nearly 1-acre lot, just minutes from the pristine beaches of Golfo Dulce, the services of Puerto Jiménez, and the legendary hiking trails of Corcovado National Park. With ample land and zoning flexibility, this property offers excellent residential and commercial development potential in one of Costa Rica's most biologically rich regions. Located only 300 meters from Highway 245, which follows the Osa Peninsula coastline and connects to the Pan-American Highway, the home is easily accessed via a prepared road leading directly to the front gate. Corcovado National Park—named by National Geographic as “the most biologically intense place on Earth”—lies less than 9 km away, while postcard-perfect Pacific beaches are just minutes from the property. Despite the wild surroundings, modern conveniences abound: Puerto Jiménez is a short drive away and offers shops, restaurants, services, mechanics, and a regional airport with 50-minute flights to San José.
