Property Description

One of the most desirable estate properties in the entire Southern Zone, the Achiote Reserve stands above the rest in an area synonymous with real estate excellence situated within the same high-end coastal corridor that defines the prestigious Dominican real estate market. This five-acre hilltop, crowned by a Bali-modern masterpiece, is one of only three properties within a 75 acre private enclave. Collectively, the three residences (two owned by a single neighboring owner) share a protected 50-acre reserve with well-maintained trails, interpretive signage, and a cascading waterfall an exceptional natural sanctuary rarely found even among the finest offerings in Costa Rica real estate. The entrance sits directly off the coastal highway, offering effortless access through a secure gated entry. The approach feels like driving into a rainforest resort towering palms line the road, rolling hills rise on both sides, and decorative vegetation blends seamlessly with native flora.
