Property Description

Set along a quiet private easement shared with a small community of friendly neighbors, this one-hectare property offers an atmosphere of privacy and expansive mountain views. The land opens onto a generous pasture with relatively flat, easy-to-work terrain, providing an effortless foundation for a future homesite. A forested section adds depth and natural character, creating a gentle transition between open spaces and shaded refuge. Water is secured through both an on-site spring and the local ASADA, offering reliable access from two sources. Infrastructure for an electric connection is already in place, streamlining the steps toward development. Located in peaceful Tirra, this property balances seclusion with simplicity, making it an ideal setting for a private residence or a nature-immersed retreat.
