Property Description

Set above the village of Canaan, this twenty-hectare property offers an expansive sweep of land at an exceptional value for the zone. From its upper ridgeline, the views open toward Canaan and eastward toward Los Angeles, capturing the quiet rhythm of the valley below. The land descends all the way to the Río Chirripó Pacífico, making it one of the last substantial riverfront parcels available in this sought-after mountain community. A public road through Chucuyo de Rivas provides access to the upper portion of the property, where several natural terraces offer promising sites for future construction. The remainder of the land unfolds in broad slopes, forested corners, and open pasture, creating a rare canvas of scale and possibility. With its combination of size, riverfront, and panoramic mountain outlooks, this property stands as an uncommon opportunity in Canaan de Rivas—an ample landscape with room to imagine, grow, and settle into the pace of the Chirripó Valley.
