Property Description

Imagine a farm in Bijagual de Turrubares, Costa Rica, that captivates from the moment you enter with its impressive views of the mountains. As you proceed along the winding road, you are surrounded by lush tropical forests and the melodious song of colorful birds. This estate covers an impressive 20 hectares of land, providing generous space to explore and enjoy nature in its purest state. At its heart, there are six crystalline springs that feed streams that meander gently throughout the landscape, adding a feeling of freshness and vitality to the environment. The highlight of the estate are the more than 20 strategically designed terraces at various elevations, each offering spectacular views of the majestic surrounding mountains. From these terraces, you can watch the sunrise dye the sky with warm tones and feel the peace that emanates from the earth while you watch the sunset over the distant hills.
