Property Description

Nestled in the tranquil and secure community of San Ramón, near San Isidro de El General, this 42-acre (17-hectare) property offers a truly unique opportunity to create a private estate, an eco-friendly retreat, or a thoughtfully planned development. Sitting at 1200 meters (3937 feet) above sea level, the land is fully developed and ready for construction, with electricity and water already available. Exceptional Land Features This vast property boasts at least 13 spacious building sites, each offering breathtaking panoramic views of the Pérez Zeledón Valley and the towering Chirripó Mountain, the highest peak in Costa Rica. Whether you envision a family sanctuary, a self-sufficient homestead, or an eco-conscious residential community, this land provides the perfect foundation for a sustainable and peaceful lifestyle. The estate is enriched with several natural water sources, ensuring a consistent and reliable water supply—an essential feature for those interested in off-grid living or agricultural projects.
