Property Description

Discover one of the most attractive investment opportunities currently available in Santa Ana Urbano Condominio. Within 12 hectares, this premium corner residence is strategically located within Phase 3, the newest section of the development, scheduled for delivery in December 2026. What makes this opportunity truly unique is that corner homes are among the most sought after units in the project due to their enhanced privacy, superior natural light, and prime positioning within the community. For buyers exploring Costa Rica real estate, these characteristics consistently place corner residences among the most desirable and valuable assets within master-planned developments. However, this particular residence is being offered at a price that is more competitive than the developer's current pricing for comparable corner units, creating immediate value for both investors and future homeowners.
