Property Description

If you are looking for the best ocean view in all of Ojochal, come see this property! With expansive views of the Pacific Ocean from Isla Ballena in the north, Drake Bay in the south, and everything in between, you can relax on your patio and see it all every day. At an elevation of 200 feet, just above the mouth of Río Térraba, you look down on an amazing whitewater view of the river mouth where the river water mixes with the waters of the pacific creating a show you don't want to miss. Imagine being so close to the white sand beaches and palm trees of Isla Garza that you can make out the individual trees and even an occasional jungle critter – you are that close. As if that was not enough, Isla del Caño is in your direct line of site surrounded by the blue waters of the pacific. The property is only being used at a fraction of its potential with a single modest two bed, two bath home, a simple carport, and garden shed.
