Property Description

This beautiful 6-acre parcel offers what so many people are looking for these days as they search for property in Costa Rica: space, privacy, ease of access, open view and community of friendly neighbors that are close, but unseen. All too often here on the front range of mountains overlooking the Pacific Ocean, 6 acres means "1/2 acre of usable space and 5 1.2 acres of steep jungle." Not so here. Judicious clearing of underbrush and trimming of tree branches has opened up numerous places where you could build cabins or guest houses for vacationers, each with privacy and even separate access by trail, quad or car if you choose. Rentals do well in this neighborhood. On the other hand, many people want a private space for their home and other usable space for a variety of fruit trees and perhaps small animals like chickens, geese, or goats. This property allows for that with room to spare. The view is of a valley and mountains, with just a tiny, thin, visible slice of blue Pacific.
